

Conference Name: International Academic Conference on Teaching, Learning, and E-Learning

Date: July 24-25, 2020

Presenter: Sohani Gandhioke, Chanchal Singh

We had the privilege of presenting our research paper at the International Academic Conference on Teaching, Learning, and E-Learning in Vienna. Our research focused on the role of accent perfection and cultural influences on language acquisition.

Our paper, titled “Language Acquisition, Accent Perfection, and Cross-Cultural Sensitivity through Creative Expression,” received positive feedback from fellow scholars who attended our presentation. Their enthusiastic response was heartening and made us proud to represent Shantou University and our English Language Center at the College of Liberal Arts.

In addition to our presentation, we attended various virtual sessions, which allowed us to compare notes and share insights on the knowledge we gained during the conference. We left feeling empowered to enhance our teaching methodologies for the benefit of our students at ELC/CLA/STU.

We extend our gratitude to our English Language Center, the College of Liberal Arts, and Shantou University for this opportunity to further our research and contribute to the academic community. Special thanks to Professor Mao for his unwavering support and encouragement!
